

HOW IT WILL GO

Estimates of the Results in Kent County.

BOTH SIDES ARE CONFIDENT

But Reliable Figures Point to the Election of the Entire Republican County Ticket—Other Estimates.

The canvass is now practically closed, and the different committees are rounding up their work, preparatory to election. To an impartial observer it is evident that a large element of doubt enters into the result in Kent county. Both county committees claim a plurality for their candidates, and the congressional committees are equally confident. There is a singular absence of figures in the desks of the various committees to substantiate their claims. This is particularly true in the case of the leaders of democracy, who have apparently been taking Don M. McKim's bi-chorde of rainbow treatment.

The republican county committee, basing its figures upon the vote for presidential electors at large in 1888, claims the county by majorities ranging from 500 to 800.

In 1888 Ada gave a democratic majority of 3, but the prohibition vote was large and was taken from the republican party. The prohibitionists will not poll so many votes this year and the republican plurality will be 10 or 15. Ada gave a republican plurality of 250 in 1888 and can be depended upon to repeat it this year.

More Republican Townships. Boone went republican by 78 plurality and the vote will be slightly increased Tuesday. Caledonia gave the Harrison electors 100 majority in 1888 and will do it again in 1892. Cannon can be depended upon for 51 republican plurality according to the vote at the last presidential election. Cascade is good for 40 republican plurality. In 1888 Courtland gave Harrison 50 plurality and may be counted upon to do it again Tuesday. Grand Rapids went 336 republican and Gratton gave Cleveland 20 plurality. The vote of these two townships will not change materially. Lowell rolled up 163 republican plurality in 1888 and will do better than that this year. Nelson went republican then by 45 votes and will not do less at the coming election. Paris is good for 84 republican plurality according to 1888's figures. Part of the township has since been taken into the city, but figures will not change materially. Plainfield is naturally republican by 50 votes and Solon will give Harrison at least 126. Sparta is claimed by the prohibitionists, but was carried by the republicans last spring. If the anti-jug party does not capture it this fall it will give a small majority for Harrison. Spencer is counted democratic by about 60 votes; but Tyrone will give a republican plurality of 50. Vergennes is counted democratic, and gave Cleveland 37 plurality in 1888. Walker is 50 democratic, according to the figures of the last presidential election; but the republicans expect to overcome this Tuesday. Wyoming is close; but it is expected to give a small republican majority. The republican managers confidently look forward to a plurality of 1,000 in the county districts. They are confident that the democratic county ticket cannot carry the city by more than 500 plurality at the most, and that it can be swamped by the country vote. It is believed that Steele will be elected senator from the sixteenth district by a small majority, and that there is a possibility of overcoming the strong democratic tendencies of the city, and electing the republican legislative ticket by a small margin.

Democratic Claims. The democratic county committee on the other hand claims that McKim will be elected by 1,500 plurality, and will carry the balance of the ticket with him, the plurality ranging from 700 to 1,200. The committee also claims Doran's election by 1,200 and that the legislative ticket will have a walk away.

Neither congressional committee knows where it's at, and both substitute unrestrained imaginations for facts. The republicans claim the district by majorities averaging all the way from 1,500 to 3,000, and the democratic committee counters by claiming everything on general principles. If Richardson could poll the vote Ford did in 1890, nothing could prevent his election, but his strength is being gauged by that of Lawrence's in 1891, Belknap will win. The congressional election is more decidedly in doubt than any other. There is a large voting element that is apparently undecided; but the votes of which will elect either candidate. The absence of any reliable information on the part of the congressional committees leaves the entire matter in doubt so far as truthful estimate is concerned.

It is claimed, however, by conservative politicians that Belknap will have from 100 to 300 plurality in Ottawa county, and not more than 200 in Ionia county. With the estimated 700 plurality that he is expected to obtain from the townships of Kent he will come into the city with about 1,200 votes to spare. Richardson will have to make a tremendous run in the city to pull down that plurality.

YESTERDAY'S REGISTRATION

PEORIA, Ill., Nov. 5.—The largest republican demonstration ever witnessed is being held here tonight. The street procession is the largest in the history of this city. It contains twelve bands and was nearly three hours passing a given point.

MADE A LAST KICK

Expiring Democracy Makes a Last Feeble Effort.

MORSE AND UHL THE SPEAKERS

And Make an Effort at Bolstering Up the Party—Morse Appeals to the Soldiers.

A. B. Morse, democratic candidate for governor, and E. F. Uhl of this city were greeted last night in Hartman's hall by a fair-sized audience and a brass band. Quartermaster Shank of the Soldier's home marched a band of crippled inmates of the home into the hall and ordered them to take seats on the stage.

When Mr. Morse appeared on the platform a slight murmur ran over the audience. No other sign was shown that the democratic leader was before them. Mr. Uhl came in later and was greeted more warmly. A colored soldier on the stage who had been directed to shake hands with Mr. Morse, mistook Mr. Uhl for the man on account of the applause given him, and he walked the whole length of the stage right past Mr. Morse and shook Mr. Uhl's hand, very much to the surprise of that distinguished democrat.

Thomas McGarry called the meeting to order and announced Senator Douglas' Jacksonian choir. The choir seemed the chief attraction for the applause it received was the most tumultuous of the evening.

Mr. Uhl's speech.

E. F. Uhl was the first speaker. He said the people were engaged in a great war. They were just approaching the end of a great campaign in that war. He had no doubt the campaign would end successfully for the democratic party. The power of taxation is dangerous and despotic. He said he knew that absolute free trade was impossible and everybody knew it. It was necessary that a tariff be placed on imports to raise the money necessary to run the government. Such a tariff for revenue is generally considered the preferable kind of taxation, for like the sugar coated pill the bitterness of the pill is somewhat concealed, but the pill was there and it got them just the same. He suggested the administration of Grover Cleveland and claimed he was defeated four years ago by the use of boddie and attacked the McKinley bill. The worst he could say of it was that William McKinley did not frame it. It was dictated to him and he was the clerk who recorded it. He claimed it had not reduced taxation. He claimed it had reduced the purchasing power of wages, but the crowd was left with his statement. He gave no proofs of the truth of his assertions. He said there is a moral side to the question. If the foreigner pays the tax the American people are practicing piracy on the foreign people.

Morse's Remarks. Mr. Uhl was followed by A. B. Morse, who said he had made fifty-two speeches in all parts of the state, and asked for patience that his voice might penetrate to all parts of the room. He promised not to speak in disrespect of any republican candidate. He charged that the republican party is the party of the wealthy and looked with distrust upon the common people. He went back to the day of the adoption of the constitution and stated that Jefferson had fiddled at country dances and that he was a leader of the common people while Hamilton was a rich man and was therefore not fit to be a leader of the people. He declared Harrison is the president of the majority. The regular vote he declared was cast for Grover Cleveland. He said if Alexander Hamilton had not succeeded in getting some of the notions into the constitution, Grover Cleveland would now be president. He wondered at the boldness of a party that claimed that it was the party of Alexander Hamilton. He claimed the arguments of the republican party were no longer directed to the hearts and heads of the voters, but to their pockets. He claimed the trouble at Homestead was due directly to the McKinley bill.

Morse Admits Wealth.

After saluting the wealthy portion of the people, he said he had nothing against the rich. He really admired the man that could accumulate wealth. He claimed the county was going to rule under the rule of the republican party. He said we are sleeping on the edge of a volcano which threatened to break forth at any moment and destroy our free institutions. The protectionist is no better than a thief or robber. The protectionist is not so good as the highway robber. They are the kind of robbers that give a man no chance to save his money. He said the one-half cent per pound on refined sugar was responsible for the sugar trust and responsible for the higher price of sugar. He raked the McKinley bill for giving a bounty to the lacy fellow down in Vermont who has nothing to do but sit on a rock and watch his sap boil into sugar. They robbed the Michigan man to give a bounty to the man in Vermont. He closed with an appeal for votes. He should have made the appeal sooner, for during his speech the audience had dwindled until not more than two-thirds of the original crowd remained.

REPUBLICAN RALLIES.

Caledonia Listened to Four Rousing Republican Speeches Yesterday.

Yesterday witnessed two grand republican rallies at Caledonia. The one in the afternoon was addressed by Judge Burch and Aaron Clark, and they had a good crowd, but the successes of the day was the meeting in the evening, when Alfred Wolcott and George Clapperton addressed an enthusiastic audience of over 600 persons. There would have been more present had the capacity of the hall permitted. The speakers presented the issues of the campaign in a logical way and were listened to with much appreciation by the audience.

LAST OF THE CAMPAIGN.

Dennis Rodgers Delivers an Address to Tenth Ward Republicans.

Frank Rodgers fired the last republican gun in the tenth ward last evening. There was a good attendance present and they listened with marked attention to Mr. Rodgers' remarks. He urged the republicans to turn out and vote Tuesday, saying that in their doing so, lies the hope of republican success. He showed what would be done by the democrats should they succeed in getting into power, and exhorted his hearers to vote the straight republican ticket.

Political Paragraphs. The democrats will fire the last gun of the campaign Monday evening, and will train on the westside. Meetings will be held at Germania, Arbeiter, Swedish and Polish halls. Four bands have been secured to awaken enthusiasm.

George T. Richmond and J. G. McBride will address a peoples' party meeting at Hook & Beck's hall, on West Leonard street, Monday evening. Alfred Wolcott will close the campaign with a speech at Gaines' town hall Monday evening. George Clapperton will speak with him.

William Alden Smith and Charles E. Belknap will address the citizens of Rockford on the issues of the campaign Monday evening.

Jacobus Can't Be Bluffed.

New York, Nov. 5.—United States Marshal Jacobus has issued a reply to David Leventritt, David MacLure, John W. Powers and Charles H. Knox, the committee appointed by Commissioner Gilroy to effect the action of deputy supervisors and marshals. In it he leaves no doubt of his intention of making arrests at the polls before the voter has deposited his ballot: "I and my deputies are directed by the laws of the United States to prevent fraudulent voting at the polls on election day."

Reid Finishes His Work.

PORT CHESTER, N.Y., Nov. 5.—White-law Reid closed his campaign work by an address at the opera house in this town tonight. Mr. Reid came by train from Mamaronock, where he spoke early in the evening. He was greeted by a big crowd at the station and as the hall would not hold half the people several overflow meetings were held. Mr. Reid reviewed the issues of the campaign and said that it was closing with every indication of victory for the republican side.

Stevenson Speaks at Chicago.

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—Stevenson closed his campaign by addressing a huge mass-meeting of democrats at the Tabernacle this evening. His remarks were chiefly on the subject of the tariff and the merits of Cleveland's administration as compared to that of Harrison. Mr. Stevenson returns to Bloomington tomorrow.
